European Stories
Intellectual Debates on Europe in National Contexts
Justine Lacroix and Kalypso Nicolaïdis

Oxford University Press
432 pages | 234x156mm
978-0-19-959462-7 | Hardback | 11 November 2010

About this book

European Stories is the first book of its kind in any European language. Its authors explore the many different ways 'public intellectuals' have debated Europe - the EU and its periphery - within distinct epistemological, disciplinary, ideological and above all national traditions. The chapters focus on the post-1989 era but with a view to the long history of the 'European idea' and its variants across the continent. To what extent such ideas frame the attitude of European publics is left open. But the authors assume that they matter to the European project as a whole.

While the twelve national cases have been selected for the broad range they offer, from founding to non-EU member states, they are not exhaustive as the book is meant to encourage further research. The authors of these chapters are all themselves fully immersed in their respective public spheres although generally not strongly identified with one 'camp' or another.

The expected readership is broad and interdisciplinary, ranging from political philosophy, to political science, international relations, history, sociology and the history of ideas. Beyond academia, European Stories is meant for all readers interested in the intellectual debates of our time.

Reviews

"This is a brilliant book. It's highly instructive chapters on how issues of European unification have been discussed from different aspects in different countries reveal in each case the strong dependence on national contexts - and the lack of mutual concern and coordination we observe in Europe even among intellectuals." - Jürgen Habermas

"Europe has completed the circle of its 'historical project', gradually healing the wounds and making amends for the errors of its past: Nazism and the Second World War, dictatorships in its Southern countries, Communist control of the East. Europe's great challenge now is to piece together a new identity, to arrive at a shared idea of Europe that is still missing. The volume edited by Justine Lacroix and Kalypso Nicolaïdis is an invaluable contribution to moving this process forward. I urge Europeans across the continent to read and debate it." - Pierre Rosanvallon, Collège de France

"The European Union is one of the most mind-boggling political phenomena of our times. All over Europe, public intellectuals have slowly been rising to the challenge of assessing its significance and arguing about its future. But most of the time in their own impenetrable national bubbles. Thanks to an impressive pan-European team, this unusual volume enables us to peep through the opaque walls that separate national debates. Whether you are looking for similarities or for differences, be prepared for many surprises" - Philippe Van Parijs, Université Catholique de Louvain and Harvard University

"This is a remarkable attempt to capture the full polyphony, not to say cacophony, of different national, sub-national and supra-national versions of the European story, and then to find some underlying tune. It should be essential reading for anyone interested in the intellectual and political future of the European project." - Timothy Garton Ash, Professor of European Studies, University of Oxford

"The trajectory of European integration is being decided not in Brussels but in 27 diverse nation-states. Their citizens view Europe in strikingly different ways. Brilliantly combining story-telling and social science, European Stories offers a path-breaking analysis of these disparate national visions. Indispensable for anyone who cares about Europe's future." - Prof. Andrew Moravcsik, Director, EU Program, Princeton University

Table of contents

Acknowledgments
List of contributors
Justine Lacroix and Kalypso Nicolaïdis: European Stories: An Introduction

Part I: Themes
1: Francis Cheneval: Lost in Universalization? On the Difficulty of Localizing the European Intellectual 3: Michael Freeden: On European and Other Intellectuals

Part II: Founders
4: Jan-Werner Muller: In the Shadows of Statism: Peculiarities of the German Debates on European Integration
5: Justine Lacroix: 'Borderline Europe': French Visions of the European Union
6: Mario Telò: Italy and the idea of Europe

Part III: Joiners
8: Katy Hayward: European Stories as National Narratives: Irish Intellectuals on Europe
9: Georges Pagoulatos and Xenophon Yataganas: Europe Othered, Europe Enlisted, Europe Possessed: Greek Public Intellectuals and the European Union
10: Carlos Closa and Antonio Barroso: Consensus, Benign Neglect and Specialised Knowledge: Spanish Intellectuals and Europe

Part IV: Returners
11: Zdzislaw Mach and Magdalena Gora: Between Old Fears and New Challenges. The Polish Debate about Europe
12: Daniel Barbu: The Geopolitics of the European Spirit in Post-secular Romania

Part V: Outliers
14: John Erik Fossum and Cathrin Holst: Progressive Nationalism? Norwegian Intellectuals and Europe
15: Nora Fisher Onar and Ahmet Evin: Convergence and Resistance: the European Dilemma of Turkish Intellectuals

Part VI: One Story or Many?
16: Juan Diez Medrano: Europe's Political Identity: Public Sphere and Public Opinion
17: Janie Pélabay, Kalypso Nicolaïdis and Justine Lacroix: Echoes and Polyphony. In Praise of Europe's Narrative Diversity

General Index
Author index
Bibliography