Ed Extras: Pre-K
Helpful information about learning brought to you by Reading Rockets, Colorin Colorado, and LD OnLine

Good Night, Sleep Tight: Preschoolers and Sleep

Parents of young kids know how precious sleep can be. It's important to remember that a lack of sleep can impact your preschooler's behavior and ability to have a good day at preschool. Grumpiness, low energy, and extremes in behavior could all be signs that your child needs more sleep.

While experts agree about the value of sleep, they also recognize that not all kids need the exact same amount. In general though, one to three year olds need between 12-14 hours of sleep per day. Most kids this age take one long nap and go to bed between 7 and 9 p.m. Kids ages three to six years old typically need between 10-12 hours of sleep per day.

To help your child understand the difference between a body at rest and a body at play, try this simple experiment:

- When your child is calm and resting, help him count his pulse during a one-minute interval.
- Write down the number of beats counted.
- Then have your child get up and do an active movement for several minutes. Try jumping jacks, running, or hopping up and down.
- Once again, help your child count his pulse during a one-minute interval.
- Compare the rate of your child’s pulse when resting to when active.

At the end of the day, help your child make observations about what happens when she gets tired. When it draws close to bedtime, ask your child how she feels. What are the signs her body gives that tell her that it is time to rest? (yawning, drooping eyelids, or a “heavy” head).

Take that sleepy-time opportunity to cuddle up with some good books for story time. Reading stories before bedtime makes a good transition between active play and rest time and should be a part of the bedtime routine. Those special, quiet moments with books will become special memories for you and your child.

For story suggestions, take a look at these booklists:

Ten Bedtime Stories
www.ReadingRockets.org/articles/books/c353

Sleepytime Books
www.ReadingRockets.org/articles/books/c354
Reading Rockets, Colorín Colorado, and LD OnLine are services of public television station WETA, Washington, D.C. Reading Rockets is funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs. Colorín Colorado, a web service to help English language learners become better readers, receives major funding from the American Federation of Teachers. Additional funding is provided by the National Institute for Literacy and the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs. LD OnLine is the world’s leading website on learning disabilities and ADHD, with major funding from Lindamood-Bell Learning Processes.
This page is for special ed pre-k teachers to share ideas and tips in a safe and helpful environment. See more of Pre-k special ed on Facebook. Log In or Create New Account. See more of Pre-k special ed on Facebook. Log In. Forgot account? Included are ideas for classroom door decorations for Pre-K. You can download pictures that will help you to create three great door ideas. Besides instructions for each of these ideas, find extra themes suggested at the end of the article—to get your creative juices really sizzling! These Pre-K classroom door decorating ideas allow you to be creative and add your own unique style to your classroom. They give your visitors an idea of what they can expect if they come inside. So have fun creating a fabulous front door and, remember, by adding your own style you will be sure to give your visitors something to talk about. Welcome! Glad you're here! You'll find hands-on learning activities, themes, and printables for Pre-K, Preschool, and Kindergarten kids. I'm Karen Cox, a Pre-K teacher in Georgia. I have taught 4-5 year olds for 20+ years! Read More; Join the Newsletter. First Name E-Mail Address. Before Footer. We believe in hands-on, active, & playful learning to inspire young minds. Serving Pre-K teachers, parents, & kids worldwide since 2000. Get Our Free Weekly Newsletter.